

CLAIMS

What I claim as my invention is

1. Combined bottles with hidden cooler comprising two bottles with specially design inner walls with cavity that after being combined together create a chamber suitable for a specially designed liner cooler implemented as a liner made from a plastic or similar material that slides in and hides inside of a chamber made by two interlocked together bottles when said liner is cored and filled with refrigerant and has a closure two plastic strips that combine the set together